I would like to welcome all of you to the 2021 AIPPI World Congress Online.

AIPPI takes the wellbeing of our members very seriously and we hope you are all well and healthy. Although the situation with the pandemic seems to be slowly improving, it continues to be a concern causing us once again to hold our Congress online.

Last year’s event, our first ever virtual Congress, was a great success. We have learned from the experience of last year, and are sure you will like the new online platform which is easy to access, interactive and more intuitive.

The programme this year highlights cutting-edge topics in IP, such as Artificial Intelligence, EU & US case law, trademark evergreening and many more! Check out the AIPPI Congress News every day of the Congress for an overview of what is taking place. There has been a phenomenal amount of people registering for this year’s Congress and we are looking forward to spending time with you during the event.

Once again, the major IP authorities in the world have agreed to participate. We are delighted to welcome the heads and representatives of WIPO and IP5 Offices. Don’t miss that session on 20 October!

The active participation of in-house members and corporate executives has been very impressive. For example, they are involved in organizing panel sessions such as Panel Session 7: Managing global patent portfolios on 19 October. This is also bound to be a well-attended session.

Delegates this year can network in different ways. Choose from 36 AIPPI Cafés where interesting topics will be discussed. You can also carry on the conversation in our new networking tool – Wonder! Click here for a video on how to use it.

We would like to thank all of our sponsors for their support which greatly assists us in putting on this event. Thanks also go to our media partners from around the world.

As a result of the hard work of many people behind the scenes, all of the elements needed for a great online Congress are in place. Please make the most of this opportunity to learn, discuss and network. We are very happy to have you here and hope that you all will enjoy the Congress we have put together.

There is not much more to say but enjoy the sessions – and have a great 2021 AIPPI World Congress Online!

Luiz Henrique do Amaral, President of AIPPI

Can you explain the origins of the Women in AIPPI session?

This networking event has been offered to our members for more than 10 years. When it was first created, there were few women in leadership roles within AIPPI. The association had plenty of women members but few were on the Bureau, in the ExCo or chaired questions or committees.

We surveyed our female congress attendees at the time and they indicated that an occasion to mingle and network among women would be appreciated. This would create a community within the association to support and elevate female leaders. It started as a social event, typically hosted by female Bureau members, with a focus on networking.

Networking?

Oh yes. We have such a nice group of ladies at AIPPI. Everyone is super friendly and they strike up conversations with one another in a very natural, easy way.

The chance to talk to women from around the world is fantastic. Our members are in different industries, at different levels of seniority and hold a variety of positions within the IP profession. This networking event unites all of these women in an environment made especially to foster connections within the association. This community stays active and connected throughout the year via a Whatsapp group chat where business referrals, thoughts of the day and kudos cohabit and are informally exchanged.
How has the event changed over the years?

At in-person Congresses we try to have a cultural element to the cocktail event. For example, in London, we had it at the Mary Quant exhibition on fashion at the Victoria & Albert Museum. It was also fashion oriented in Milan, of course, as it took place in the Café Trussardi. In Cancun we had the most relaxing event as it was held at the spa! In Sydney, we enjoyed spectacular views from the O Bar as we mingled. Long-time attendees will remember the local artists displaying their work in Hyderabad.

COVID has caused us to create a slightly more formal session for our online congresses. We decided to showcase a woman as our keynote speaker while still leaving plenty of time for our participants to network in smaller groups in breakout rooms.

What briefing do you give the speakers?

We look for someone inspiring – and someone who does not have a linear career path which makes their narrative more interesting. We ask them to tell us their background and their career path, sharing insights, tips and their best advice. Hearing about the successes and experiences of other female IP professionals is uplifting and encouraging to all of our members. Last year’s speaker, Gwen, works in-house in manufacturing, a very male-dominated industry. She shared her tips for benefiting from this situation and making the most out of it.

And this year’s speaker?

Úna was trained as a chemist in Ireland and worked as a patent examiner in Australia. She now empowers girls to be leaders through STEM education in Cambodia. I am very interested to hear her story and learn about the choices she made in her career. The session will be a chance for women to take stock and to be inspired by what others have done.

Playing Devil’s Advocate, do we still need a Women in AIPPI session?

Oh yes, it is still needed. Although we now have more women leaders, we need to keep it up. The Bureau is certainly more gender balanced these days but we wish to see more female leaders chairing questions, being committee chairs and holding executive leadership, including the presidency, in their national or regional group.

Will there be dancing at this year’s event?

(Laughs). That was fun last year. I won’t reveal what the fun activity this year is, but I can say this - bring a piece of paper, ideally a colourful one, to the event!!!

Any last words?

I’ve met some wonderful and inspiring women in this association, women not hesitant to get involved, contribute to the work of the association in their free time, and support their colleagues and friends within AIPPI. Many professional acquaintances have become friends over the years and I cherish these relationships.

I’ve always looked up to the late Joan Clark, Q.C., AIPPI Member of Honour, who was the first Canadian and the first woman to be named President of AIPPI. Miss Clark (as we used to call her at Ogilvy Renault), was a notable person, principled, dignified but down-to-earth, with a love of life. She is dearly missed but I know that we still benefit from her legacy in Canada, and within AIPPI.

I hope that the younger generation of members can one day decide that this session is outdated and useless. It will mean that we have achieved that we intended to, namely foster enough connections and relationships and inspire enough leaders that gender-balance becomes the norm. Until then, we will do all in our power to showcase our members’ talent and expertise!

Law of Raw Data

Edited by Christian Czychowski & Jan Bernd Nordemann

Law of Raw Data gives an overview of the legal situation across major countries and how such data is contractually handled in practice in the respective countries. In recent years, digital technologies have transformed business and society, impacting all sectors of the economy and a wide variety of areas of life. Digitization is leading to rapidly growing volumes of data with great economic potential. Data, in its raw or unstructured form, has become an important and valuable economic asset, and protection of raw data has become a crucial subject for the intellectual property community. As legislators struggle to develop a settled legal regime in this complex area, this invaluable handbook will offer a careful and dedicated analysis of the legal instruments and remedies, both existing and potential, that provide such protection across a wide variety of national legal systems.
